

SIX JURORS
FOR MOLINEUX

Good Progress in Finding Talesmen to Qualify and Six Are Chosen on First Day.

PRISONER VERY CONFIDENT.

Cheerful in Court and Tells The Evening World the Trial Will Be Short and He Will Be Acquitted.

MOLINEUX JURORS:

EDWARD L. YOUNG, Hardware
Commission Merchant; house No.
317 West Eighty-ninth street.
FRANK H. GOULD, connected with the Dittson Music Publishing Company; house No. 246 West One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street.

JOHN CATOIR, Silk Merchant at
No. 212 West Thirty-sixth street; house No. 142 Hamilton Terrace.

EDWARD H. LOVELACE, secretary and treasurer of the stationers' Board of Trade, Bennett Building; house No. 170 West Twenty-seventh street.

JOHN H. HAUPT, Superintendent of Huyler's candy factory; home in Buffalo Park.

CHARLES M. O'CONNOR, dealer in electrical supplies; house No. 218 West One Hundred and Sixteenth street.

Unexpected progress was made before Justice John S. Lambert to-day in choosing a jury for the second trial of Roland B. Molineux on the charge of murder by poison of Mrs. Kate Adams.

It took twelve days to get a jury for the first trial of Molineux. In this trial three jurors were found in the first hour after the examination of talesmen began. These were in the box when the noon recess was taken. The fourth was chosen a few minutes after the afternoon session began.

The fifth and sixth jurors were chosen before 5 o'clock.

At ten minutes after 5 o'clock the court adjourned until to-morrow.
Molineux was eager and expectant. His step was light and brisk and when he was taken into court his head was well up, but his face was pale and sallow and there were wrinkles which told of his long imprisonment.

Gen. Molineux, father of the accused, was given a chair by the side of a young woman in black. Rumor spread that she was young Mrs. Molineux. Inquiry proved that she was not the wife of the prisoner.

Counsel for the defense were given seats inside the inner rail, next to the table occupied by Assistant District Attorney James W. Osborne and his assistants.

Objected to the Panel.

Court was opened at 10:45 o'clock.
After a conference of several minutes between the Justice and the attorneys for the defense and prosecution Barlow E. Weeks, for the defense, read a long type-written objection to the special panel, which was the embodiment of the objections made in the argument Monday. The objections were disallowed, exceptions taken, and the calling of the roll of 166 talesmen summoned for jury duty was begun.

As soon as Molineux was brought in his father hurried over to his side and laughed cheerily as he told him that everything was all right now and he would be free in a short time.

A reporter for The Evening World asked the prisoner:

"How are you feeling?"
"Well and confident," He smiled and seemed in a pleasant mood.

"How about this trial?"

"It will be short and I will be acquitted."

Offering Excuses.

When the roll of talesmen had been finished the Court asked for those who had legal excuses for not serving as jurors.

"Business excuses will not be accepted," said the clerk. "and it will only be a waste of time to present them." Justice Lambert was inclined to accept the certificates of physicians, but he was sceptical on other excuses.

But judging from the number of physicians' certificates it was evident that the jury commissioner who selected the panel fell into a rich field for

(Continued on Second Page.)

WEATHER FORECAST.

Forecast for the thirty-six hours ending at 8 P. M. Thursday for New York City and vicinity: Fair to-night and Thursday; warmer Thursday; variable winds, mostly fresh southwest.

Neuralgic cures neuralgia and all pains and aches. Price 25¢ a bottle. All druggists.

JEROME GETS $100,000
IN GAMBLERS' SAFES.

Strong Boxes at Draper's and Kelly's Resorts Prove Veritable Mines of Wealth.

A search this afternoon of the gambling houses raided in the Tenderloin last night, revealed the fact that they were veritable sub-treasures in miniature.

Close to $100,000 in cash and bonds was found in two safes in "Shang" Draper's place in West Twenty-eighth street.

John Kelly's, in Forty-first street, did not pan out so well in cash and bonds, but "I. O. U.'s" and other securities said to be worth close to $50,000 were found.

Inspector Brooks took the "I. O. U.'s" and would not show the signatures.

The gambling house of "Honest John" was the first place searched. District Attorney Jerome, Inspector Brooks and several policemen represented the city.
The interests of the gamblers were looked out for by Lawyers James W.
Ridgway, Morris Goldsmith and Stephen J. O'Hare, who were present when the safes were opened and listed every article seized.

There were four safes in Kelly's place.
One in the basement yielded up ten superior gold watches, which had been pledged by patrons of the house, a bunch of pawn tickets representing about $2,000 and $3,000 in cash.

Two safes on the lower floors contained an astonishing lot of "I. O. U.'s" signed by prominent New Yorkers; a quantity of roulette balls and ivory chips, $2,400 in cash and a collection of papers that Inspector Brooks took charge of and guards religiously. District-Attorney Jerome was jubilant over the papers. He said they were what he had been wanting to get hold of for a long time and probably would prove the most important seizure in the raid.

More "I. O. U.'s" were found in a safe on the fourth floor, with $100 in cash. In this safe was found a big bundle of stocks and bonds, unmarked.
The police believe they belong to Kelly, but one of the attorneys asserted that they were the property of a bookmaker.
From Kelly's the searchers went to "Shang" Draper's. In the first safe were found all the private papers and records of the estate of the late Eddie Burke, the gambler, who died a few months ago at Long Branch. The private papers and records of Eddie Burke, the bookmaker, who was associated with Mark in the gambling business, also were found in the safe.

In a tin box in the inner safe the searchers found a roll of money amounting to $40,000. This, the negro custodian said, was the combined working bank roll of Eddie Burke, Leo Swartz, Leo Mayer and David Gilmore, the bookmakers.

Another big roll of money was found in safe No. 2. It was sealed up and marked without being counted, but the negro attendant asserted that it contained between $30,000 and $40,000, the bankroll of another bookmaker, a sympatic, Stocks and bonds in profusion brought the value of the seizure at Draper's up to the neighborhood of $100,000.

EVENING WORLD TIPS WIN.

THE WINNERS.

FIRST RACE—Marylander 1, Decameron 2, R. B. Sack 3.

SECOND RACE—River Pirate 1, Syrin 2, Sparkle Escher 3.

THIRD RACE—Rossignol 1, Lady Sterling 2, Huntress 3.

FOURTH RACE—Ringdove 1, Nevermore 2, Christine A. 3.

FIFTH RACE—Blackwater 1, Com
Paul 2, Cameron 3.

SIXTH RACE—McWilliams 1, Prince Richard 2, Queen Carnal 3.

John A. Drake has presented his trainer, Enoch Wishard, with an automobile as a reward for turning out three winners in the Drake colors yesterday.

(Special to The Evening World.)
MORRIS PARK RACE TRACK, Oct.
15.—Beautiful weather prevailed again this afternoon, with just enough sharpness to the air to make topcoats feel comfortable. The card was attractive and looked seductive, but the old saying that "all that glitters is not gold" applies to racing programmes these days.
It may be another story after the day is over and the crowd goes home dazed and bewildered, wondering how it all happened.

The stake attraction this afternoon was the McGrathiana, for three-year-old fillies, with the inevitable selling conditions attached. Of course, a chess board was entered, the list including Rossignol. Much interest was manifested in the performance of this filly, which showed an astonishing reversal of form a few days ago. There was a handicap at a mile that was a much better feature than the stake. The attendance was good and the track very fast.

FIRST RACE.
Starters, whits, jacks, St. Hill, Fin. St. Place.
Marylander, 153, Parsons 1 4 2 3 12 4
De Cameron, 153, Parsons 1 4 2 3 12 4
R. B. Sack, 148, Mr.
Holloway 4 2 3 4 10 12
Mr. Stoffel, 152, Heider 2 5 1 3 10 3
Glasgow, 145, Dayton 2 3 1 10 10 2
Howard Grate, 147, Wilson 6 6 12 4
Cook Robin, 143, G. B.
Smith 3 fell 7-19 1-4
Rohr, Morrison, 151, Neach 1, refused 40 12
Start good. Won easy. Time—4:00.

Cook Robin cut out the running under the flag, which was six furlongs from the finish. Then Marylander took the lead and held it to the end, winning easily by six lengths from Decameron, who was two lengths in front of R. B. Sack, who was ridden by Mr. Holloway, his owner. This is Mr. Holloway's debut as Steeplechase; about two miles.

The stake attraction this afternoon
was the McGrathiana, for three-year-
old fillies, with the inevitable selling conditions attached. Of course, a chess board was entered, the list including Rossignol. Much interest was manifested in the performance of this filly,
which showed an astonishing reversal
of form a few days ago. There was a handicap at a mile that was a much better feature than the stake. The attendance was good and the track very fast.

FIRST RACE.
Starters, whits, jacks, St. Hill, Fin. St. Place.
Marylander, 153, Parsons 1 4 2 3 12 4
De Cameron, 153, Parsons 1 4 2 3 12 4
R. B. Sack, 148, Mr.
Holloway 4 2 3 4 10 12
Mr. Stoffel, 152, Heider 2 5 1 3 10 3
Glasgow, 145, Dayton 2 3 1 10 10 2
Howard Grate, 147, Wilson 6 6 12 4
Cook Robin, 143, G. B.
Smith 3 fell 7-19 1-4
Rohr, Morrison, 151, Neach 1, refused 40 12
Start good. Won easy. Time—4:00.

Cook Robin cut out the running under the flag, which was six furlongs from
the finish. Then Marylander took the lead and held it to the end, winning easily
by six lengths from Decameron, who was two lengths in front of R. B. Sack, who was ridden by Mr. Holloway, his owner. This is Mr. Holloway's debut as

(Continued on Eighth Page.)

"Black & White," the Real Scotch.
Soft, smooth and delicious. It soothes the right spot. 25¢

JEWELRY, OR DEATH, HE SAID.

Dawson Demanded Valuables of Mrs. Watkins,
Declaring He Would Blow
Her Up If She Refused.

HIS THREAT WAS A BLUFF.

When A'arm Was Given He Tried to Escape—No Dynamite in His Bag, but He Had a Loaded Revolver.

Carrying a black traveling bag and a letter announcing that the bag contained dynamite enough to wreck a room, Henry Dawson made a call upon Mrs. Amy Watkins, of No. 84 Seventh avenue, to-day with the information that unless she handed over her jewelry he would drop the bag.

There were two bluffs in the threat, for the bag did not contain dynamite, nor did he drop it, and in trying to escape from the outcry raised by Mrs.
Watkins and her daughter Mabel, the young man was arrested.

Dawson, who is thirty-one years of age, gave his occupation as clerk and refused his address. He is the first to try the bag of dynamite threat in New York since Norcross took a real cargo of the explosive into the office of Russell Sage and blew himself to pieces.

Asked for Mrs. Watkins.

The apartment-house in which Mrs.
Watkins lives is between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth streets. Dawson entered the vestibule and told the elevator boy that he wished to see Mrs. Watkins on business. He was shown to the Watkins' flat, where he announced to a maid that it was his desire to consult with Mrs. Watkins about some real estate she owns in St. Louis.

Mrs. Watkins, a handsome woman of middle age, went to the reception room to see her caller. Dawson, who had been seated, arose when she entered and approached her, carrying the bag. He handed her an open letter with the request that she read it.

Mrs. Watkins did not have her glasses with her so she called her daughter, who was in the next room. Miss Watkins came in, took the letter and stood beside her mother to read it. Dawson was a few feet away.

"Read it aloud, my dear," said Mrs.
Watkins.

The young woman glanced over the letter and what she saw caused her to become weak. As she hesitated the mother again commanded her to read, and this is what she read:

The Awful Threat

"Kindly read the following words without comment, and above all do not show any undue surprise. In the bag you see I have there are explosive enough to wreck the entire room. If I should perchance let the bag fall no doubt you and I would both perish."

Miss Watkins got no further. Mrs.
Watkins screamed "murder," and started out of the room. Dawson pulled a loaded revolver from his pocket and told the women that unless they gave him their jewelry he would not only
drop the bag, but shoot them both.

This had no effect upon the women,
who had been commanded not to exhibit any "undue surprise." They dashed for the hall, screaming and above all do not show any undue surprise. In the bag you see I have there are explosive
enough to wreck the entire room. If I should perchance let the bag fall no
doubt you and I would both perish."

Miss Watkins got no further. Mrs.
Watkins screamed "murder," and started out of the room. Dawson pulled
a loaded revolver from his pocket and
told the women that unless they gave
him their jewelry he would not only
drop the bag, but shoot them both.

This had no effect upon the women,
who had been commanded not to exhibit any "undue surprise." They dashed
for the hall, screaming and above all
do not show any undue surprise. In the
bag you see I have there are explosive
enough to wreck the entire room. If I should perchance let the bag fall no
doubt you and I would both perish."

Miss Watkins got no further. Mrs.
Watkins screamed "murder," and started out of the room. Dawson pulled
a loaded revolver from his pocket and
told the women that unless they gave
him their jewelry he would not only
drop the bag, but shoot them both.

This had no effect upon the women,
who had been commanded not to exhibit any "undue surprise." They dashed
for the hall, screaming and above all
do not show any undue surprise. In the
bag you see I have there are explosive
enough to wreck the entire room. If I should perchance let the bag fall no
doubt you and I would both perish."

Miss Watkins got no further. Mrs.
Watkins screamed "murder," and started out of the room. Dawson pulled
a loaded revolver from his pocket and
told the women that unless they gave
him their jewelry he would not only
drop the bag, but shoot them both.

This had no effect upon the women,
who had been commanded not to exhibit any "undue surprise." They dashed
for the hall, screaming and above all
do not show any undue surprise. In the
bag you see I have there are explosive
enough to wreck the entire room. If I should perchance let the bag fall no
doubt you and I would both perish."

Miss Watkins got no further. Mrs.
Watkins screamed "murder," and started out of the room. Dawson pulled
a loaded revolver from his pocket and
told the women that unless they gave
him their jewelry he would not only
drop the bag, but shoot them both.

This had no effect upon the women,
who had been commanded not to exhibit any "undue surprise." They dashed
for the hall, screaming and above all
do not show any undue surprise. In the
bag you see I have there are explosive
enough to wreck the entire room. If I should perchance let the bag fall no
doubt you and I would both perish."

Miss Watkins got no further. Mrs.
Watkins screamed "murder," and started out of the room. Dawson pulled
a loaded revolver from his pocket and
told the women that unless they gave
him their jewelry he would not only
drop the bag, but shoot them both.

This had no effect upon the women,
who had been commanded not to exhibit any "undue surprise." They dashed
for the hall, screaming and above all
do not show any undue surprise. In the
bag you see I have there are explosive
enough to wreck the entire room. If I should perchance let the bag fall no
doubt you and I would both perish."

Miss Watkins got no further. Mrs.
Watkins screamed "murder," and started out of the room. Dawson pulled
a loaded revolver from his pocket and
told the women that unless they gave
him their jewelry he would not only
drop the bag, but shoot them both.

This had no effect upon the women,
who had been commanded not to exhibit any "undue surprise." They dashed
for the hall, screaming and above all
do not show any undue surprise. In the
bag you see I have there are explosive
enough to wreck the entire room. If I should perchance let the bag fall no
doubt you and I would both perish."

MISS AND MRS. WATKINS,
THREATENED BY ROBBER

PRISONER PATIENT ESCAPED

Jumped from Second-Story Window of Hospital When Left Alone.
NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 15.—Charles Spangs, who is accused by the Pennsylvania authorities of larceny in the first degree, and for whom regulation papers were on the way, this afternoon escaped from the City Hospital, where he was recovering from an illness.

Left alone for a few minutes, he jumped from a second-story window and apparently landed unhurt, for he got away before his absence was discovered.

The Train of the Traveller is the Pennsylvania Special, the twenty-hour run on the Pennsylvania Railroad between New York and Chicago.

DEPUTY TAX ASSESSOR FORD ACQUITTED ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Thomas J. Ford, Deputy Tax Assessor of the Bronx, who has been on trial before Recorder Goff for three days, charged with accepting a $100 bribe from a real-estate man named J. Bowie Dash, was acquitted this afternoon. Dash asserted that he had given Ford ten marked $10 bills in payment for the reduction of the assessment on the value of his property.

Ford in his own defense testified that the money was paid to him for services in an effort to sell some real estate for Dash.

LATE RESULTS AT WORTH.

Fifth Race—St. Cuthbert 1, Money Muss 2, Waswift 3.
Sixth Race—Lucien Appleby 1; iPink Coat 2, Homestead 3.

AT ST. LOUIS.

Fourth Race—Elastic 1, Frank Bell 2, Amigari 3.
Fifth Race—Chappaqua 1, Orris 2, Lunar 3.

FOOTBALL RESULTS.

At Cambridge—Harvard, 35; Wesleyan, 5.
At Philadelphia—Pennsylvania, 36; Gettysburg, 0.
At Fordham—Fordham, 6; Villa Nova, 15.

MONEY MISSING FROM RAIDED SAFES.

District-Attorney Jerome was disgusted this afternoon when he learned that the contents of the safes of "Honest John" Kelly taken in the raid last night, only a few hundred dollars and some gold watches, were found in them, although four bookmakers claimed last night their bank rolls were in Kelly's safes and wanted him to surrender, so they could get their money.
Mr. Jerome will try to learn what became of that money.

MITCHELL GOES
TO ASK MINERS
TO ACCEPT TERMS.

Strike Leader Holds a Second Conference Today with the President and Then Starts for Wilkesbarre to Lay the Plan for Strike Settlement Before the Local Presidents.

Mine Operators Hold an Important Meeting in J. Pierpont Morgan's Office to Consider New Phases of the Situation—Local Strike Leaders Confer at Wilkesbarre.

(Special from a Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—John Mitchell left the White House at 8:45 o'clock. He would make no statement, and Secretary Cortelyou said there would be nothing from the White House.

Mitchell did not submit a counter-proposition in writing, as it was thought he would, but talked over the all phases of arbitration with the President.

It can be stated on the highest authority that Mitchell is as anxious as anybody to end the strike. He is doing all he can. He must deal with his district presidents and the strikers, and that is why he went back to Wilkesbarre without talking.

He understands thoroughly the President's position and what the Presidents wants and will do, and his task is to make the district presidents understand it and get them in line. He thinks he can do this.
So does the President.

MITCHELL CONSULTS SARGENT.

Mitchell left the White House after the first conference at one o'clock.
He spent the time until 3 o'clock in the office of Frank P. Sargent, Commissioner of Immigration, in close consultation. He dictated a statement of some kind to a stenographer and went back to the White House.

He arrived there at three o'clock and went at once to the President's room.

There is no apprehension at the White House that the plan for settlement will fail. It is explained that big negotiations like these consume time.
FIRST CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT.

Mitchell's first conference with the President was held this morning. It lasted for about an hour. Carroll D. Wright, Commissioner of Labor, was present all the time.

The conference went into the vexed question of whether the President should restrict himself to the classes of men suggested by the operators or whether he should have a free hand as suggested by John Mitchell at the original White House conference.

Most of the time was spent going over the names of prominent men who may serve on the Arbitration Board.

What Mitchell wanted most of the President was a knowledge of the personnel of the commission as far as the President could give it, and as many facts as he could get about the conference on Monday night with Morgan, Root and Bacon.

MITCHELL LOOKED CHEERFUL.

Mr. Mitchell appeared to be more cheerful than when he entered the White House, but still maintained his reticence. He declined to say whether he had submitted any counter propositions to the President or to indicate whether or not he would make a statement.

It was learned that the President had succeeded in convincing Mitchell that the interests of the miners would be safe if he were left free to select the arbitrators.

Mr. Mitchell, it is said, agreed, but went to consult Sargent and other American Federation leaders before giving a definite reply.

Secretary Root arrived at the White House shortly before 2 o'clock and took luncheon with the President.

MORGAN AND OPERATORS IN A NEW CONFERENCE.

J. Pierpont Morgan, E. B. Thomas, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Erie Railroad; President Truesdale, of the Lackawanna Railroad; Mr. Berwind, of the Berwind-White Coal Mining Company, and F. A.
B. Widener went into Mr. Morgan's office shortly before 3 o'clock, where a conference was held.

They had only been in consultation a few minutes when Mr. Widener came out and hurried across the street into the offices of H. B. Hollins and Company. Mr. Widener apparently did not hear any questions that were asked him when he came out in the street, for he made straight for the other building without stopping.

Mr. Berwind has been mentioned as a probable member of the Arbitration Board to be appointed by the President. He was formerly the head of the biggest coal contracting sales concern in the world.

There was direct telephone connection all afternoon between Mr. Morgan's office and Washington. One of the operators said this morning that the first news of the outcome of the negotiations would be sent to Mr. Morgan's office.

Inasmuch as District Presidents Fahey, Duffy and Nichols were in conference at Wilkesbarre at the same time that the Morgan conference was